

Questions:

1. How does uncertainty make you feel? Is it ever actually possible to be certain? Why or why not?
2. What stood out for you from Exodus 13:17-22?
3. Eric suggests that the Israelite slaves might have, like many others, experienced trepidation about taking an unknown path as opposed to remaining in familiar bondage. What are some situations where people cling to the known at the expense of stepping out into the unknown?
4. Scott suggests that we may crave plot twists in movies because we naturally anticipate change and unexpected outcomes. What do you think of that idea? What have been some of the plot twists in your own life?
5. What benefits do you think might be generated by embracing uncertainty? Why do you think the subjects of The Asphalt Gospel had such a different attitude at the end of their journey than they did in the middle? What insight does that provide you for your own journey?

Pneuma Divina Scripture: Exodus 13:17-22

17 When Pharaoh let the people go, God did not lead them by way of the land of the Philistines, although that was nearer; for God thought, 'If the people face war, they may change their minds and return to Egypt.' 18 So God led the people by the roundabout way of the wilderness towards the Red Sea. The Israelites went up out of the land of Egypt prepared for battle. 19 And Moses took with him the bones of Joseph, who had required a solemn oath of the Israelites, saying, 'God will surely take notice of you, and then you must carry my bones with you from here.' 20 They set out from Succoth, and camped at Etham, on the edge of the wilderness. 21 The LORD went in front of them in a pillar of cloud by day, to lead them along the way, and in a pillar of fire by night, to give them light, so that they might travel by day and by night. 22 Neither the pillar of cloud by day nor the pillar of fire by night left its place in front of the people.
